

Are your employees Quietly Quitting?

A NO-COST, IN-PERSON workshop open to all Employers in Contra Costa County!

Quiet quitting occurs when an employee does not abruptly physically leave a job, but instead performs only what the job requires; being mentally checked out but still physically present. While employers can't make every employee happy, their leadership style and culture can impact whether workers are engaged or not and hold all employees accountable.

Topics that will be covered:

- The 3 levels of engagement in the workforce
- Signs of an actively disengaged employee
- 8 Ways to avoid quiet quitting on your team
- Practical tips to hold all of your employees accountable

In this employer forum roundtable, facilitated by a certified trainer, you will be able to share stories, learn new methods of how to handle underperforming employees and the importance of inspiring versus firing your key contributors!
